

BRAC: MAJOR ARMY ACTIONS TO SUPPORT THE CIVILIAN WORKFORCE

The Army values the skills and contributions of its Civilian workforce. The BRAC 2005 moves offer Army Civilians significant opportunities for personal growth and the ability to shape and enhance their careers.

Army employees who are relocated as a result of BRAC will be authorized applicable Permanent Change of Station benefits, including:

- Travel and transportation expenses
- Real estate expense reimbursement
- The Defense National Relocation Program
- Homeowner's Assistance Program (when eligible)

Army employees who decline to relocate or who may separate as a result of a relocation or an installation's closure will be offered enrollment in:

- The Department of Defense Priority Placement Program
- Inter-agency Career Transition Program
- The Department of Defense Job Exchange
- Civilian Personnel BRAC outplacement services

Army Commands may also offer:

- Voluntary Early Retirement Program
- Voluntary Separation Incentive Pay

During sweeping initiatives such as BRAC, knowledge is essential to understanding the changes taking place and enabling smart choices for your organization, your community and yourself.

GET ENGAGED LEARN MORE ABOUT BRAC

The Department of Defense and the Army are committed to providing comprehensive information about BRAC and offer the following resources:

Department of Defense BRAC
www.dod.mil/brac

Office of the Assistant Secretary of the Army for Installations & Environment
www.asaie.army.mil

Army BRAC
www.hqda.army.mil/acsim/brac/braco.htm

Army Civilian Personnel On-line (CPOL)
<http://cpol.army.mil/general/brac/>

Homeowner's Assistance Program
<http://hap.usace.army.mil>

Defense National Relocation Program
<http://www.nab.usace.army.mil/dnrp>

Army Base Realignment and Closure 2005:

On Time, On Target to Support The Transformation and Recapitalization Of America's Army

ARMY BRAC 2005: AN OVERVIEW

The Army BRAC program is making history by supporting the Army's largest organizational transformation since World War II.

BRAC is positioning Army assets to better support Soldiers, Army Families and Army Civilians.

BRAC provides opportunities for:

- Training, deploying and sustaining the Army as a premier fighting force
- Facilitating Army transformation, joint operations and joint business functions with other military services
- Significantly reducing the cost of enterprise installation ownership
- Partnering with local communities, making them better places to live
- Providing personnel growth and ability to enhance and shape careers
- Rebalancing the Army by 2011 to meet strategic Army goals

BRAC 2005 is fully funded.

The Army remains committed to meeting the BRAC 2005 law requirements and is on track to do so.

112 of the 182 BRAC 2005 Commission Recommendations Impact the Army

12 Major Closures

- 5 HC Installations
- 3 Chemical Depots
- 4 Ammunition Plants

1 Minor Closure

Charles E. Kelly Support Center

211 Guard Closures
176 Reserve Closures

125 New Armed Forces Reserve Centers (AFRCs)

- 6 Major Realignments
- 5 Schools
- 4 Brigade Combat Teams

- 50 Active Installations impacted
- 3 Reserve Garrisons Impacted
- 8 Leased Facilities impacted

IMPORTANCE FOR THE ARMY

- Collocation of the Installation Management Command (IMCOM) and the Network Enterprise Technology Command (NETCOM) NE & SE Headquarters
- Support for the consolidation of the Transportation Command (TRANSCOM) Components at Scott Air Force Base, IL
- Support for the creation of the Joint Mobilization Site at Ft. Bragg, NC

Positions Moving from Fort Eustis: 1,375

Positions Moving to Fort Eustis: 2,102

Total Military Construction: $123.2 million

Movements from Fort Eustis:

Consolidated Transportation Command
Components to Scott Air Force Base, ILSep 2010
Transportation Center and School to
Fort Lee, VASep 2010

Movements to Fort Eustis:

IMCOM NE & SE Region Headquarters
from various locations including
Fort Monroe, VA and
Fort McPherson, GASep 2011
NETCOM NE & SE Region Headquarters
from various locations including
Fort Monroe, VA and
Fort McPherson, GASep 2011
Training and Doctrine Command
(TRADOC) Headquarters from
Fort Monroe, VASep 2011
Army Contracting Command N Region
Headquarters from Fort Monroe, VASep 2011
Joint Task Force Civil Support- Discretionary Move from
Fort Monroe, VASep 2011

